Why small group home school?

As educators we know the importance of consistency, routine, and social interaction. We want to offer an alternative to the unknowns of our society today due to Covid-19. While seeing the frustrations with at home learning in the spring and with the daily changes we keep hearing about, we wanted to offer a safe alternative for families. This environment will still allow the children to be with their peers and receive high quality instruction in a small group environment.

All environments will be sanitized throughout the day. Children will not share their school supplies. No masks will be worn, as it is important for their early literacy and language development that they see our mouths as we form letter sounds and speak.

If we must quarantine at any point, all appropriate measures will be taken, and our one on one academics will continue without interruption.

WHAT TO EXPECT

- Hands on learning
- Loving Christian environment
- A reading curriculum that focuses on the prevention of reading difficulties, building on vocabulary, comprehension, listening and verbal expression.
- Skills will be taught using multi-sensory techniques to develop their sound-symbol relationships with letters/words.
- Handwriting and writing skills based on daily learning.
- Foundational math skills
- Multi-level/multi-ability learning
- State standards will be followed for each academic subject area (Language Arts, Math, Science and Social Studies)
- Progress will be monitored, and report cards given quarterly
- Themed activities and the arts will be included.
- Lots of one on one instruction, so individual levels can be addressed
- The educator IS a HIGHLY qualified Texas CERTIFIED educator, specializing in early childhood reading
